— The complaint will be rejected in respect of those parts relating to the partial (subsequently) fulfilled data access request as well as the right to information.

Legal bases: § 24(1) and (5) of the Data Protection Act (DSG), BGBl. I No 165/1999 as amended; Articles 13, 15, 60(9) and 77 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 (General Data Protection Regulation — GDPR), OJ L 119, 4.5.2016, p. 1.

JUSTIFICATION

A. Arguments of the parties and proceedings

1. By complaint of 19 March 2019, improved by submissions of 2 April 2019, 23 April 2019 and 8 May 2019, the complainant claimed an infringement of the right to information and information and claimed that he had acquired a [redacted] a person with four training sessions per week from the Respondent in April 2018; consists of, among other things, a licensed software. By e-mail from 18 April 2018 the Complainant the Respondent informed that medical data would be collected during the operation of the software and a monthly Data matching with the information in the Online database the The respondent seems to be taking place. The complainant then agreed with the respondent to purchase an offline variant. On 11 June 2018, the complainant received the following notification from the programme: No synchronisation has*been performed for 30 days. The program cannot be reused until a synchronisation has been carried out with an existing internet connection*.' The complainant then connected the device to the Internet. As a result, 55 entries for various training sessions were sent to the Respondent. On 7 September 2018, another synchronisation took place, in which 114 entries were transferred. The complainant was not informed by the respondent of the purposes of the data processing nor of the legal basis for this. Furthermore, the complainant had requested the respondent by e-mail of 11 September 2018 to provide information pursuant to Article 15 of the GDPR, but this request for information had not yet been answered.

2. As this is a cross-border situation and the main establishment or sole establishment of the respondent is located in Germany, the proceedings were suspended by decision of the Data Protection Authority of 21 June 2019, GZ DSB-D130.241/0006-DSB/2019 until the decision of a lead supervisory authority or the European Data Protection Board.

3. Subsequently, the Bavarian State Office for Data Protection Supervision (BayLDA) has declared itself the lead supervisory authority and submitted the Respondent's complaint for comments and made several requests in this regard.

From the respondent's point of view, the facts are different from those stated by the complainant in the following points: The purchase of the offline variant was made after consultation by the Respondent about the differences between online and offline variants. In this context, the complainant confirmed to the respondent that he waived the online synchronisation of his data. He also noted that his data could not be recovered even in the event of a loss or defect of a device. A corresponding confirmation signed by the complainant on 23 April 2018 was submitted by the Respondent. In order to be able to use the licensed offline version, an activation must be made. In this case, license data (name, address, PIN) would be requested, which the complainant had also agreed to after corresponding oral information by the respondent. In that regard, the respondent submitted the judgment of the Amtsgericht Nürnberg of 25 March 2019 (ref. 12 C 8459/18) in which that facts were found. However, the complainant subsequently attempted to perform an online synchronisation despite the confirmation signed on 23 April 2018 and entered data. By e-mail of 12 June 2018, the Respondent agreed to the complainant to provide and activate a so-called single version. This is a software extension that allowed the complainant to train on a larger scale. The nature of the software acquired by the complainant as an offline variant was not thereby altered. However, the complainant subsequently attempted to carry out an online synchronisation and entered data contrary to the agreement reached on 23 April 2018. The message "No synchronisation has been performed for 30 days". The program can only be reused once a synchronisation has been performed on an existing Internet connection' is based on the fact that the complainant unlawfully installed an older software version on another device that had a software error. Therefore, instead of contacting the Respondent, the complainant carried out the synchronisation. The complainant was unable to provide proof of when and by which device this notification was displayed. Moreover, that was also stated in the above-mentioned judgment of the Amtsgericht Nürnberg. The complainant's request for information had already been answered by e-mail of 12 September 2018. A corresponding e-mail has been submitted. Neither the right to information nor the right to information have been violated.

4. By final notification of 25 November 2020, the BayLDA informed the complainant of the results of the investigation.

5. By letter dated 9 June 2021, the BayLDA requested further information from the Respondent, namely the sending of the second information provided on 13 September 2018, as well as information on the state of play of the court proceedings conducted between the complainant and the respondent. The respondent informed the BayLDA by e-mail of 3 August 2021 that the appeal against the judgment of the Amtsgericht Nürnberg of 25 March 2019 had been withdrawn. Furthermore, the information provided by e-mail of 13 September 2018 was sent.

6. With regard to the decision taken by the lead supervisory authority, the decision of the data protection authority suspending the proceedings was remedied by a decision of today's day and is issued by ggstl regarding the part of the complaint to be dismissed. Let's go.

B. Subject of complaint

The subject matter of the complaint is whether the Respondent has thereby infringed the complainant's rights of access and information by not providing him with information or sufficient information. For the part to be granted, the lead supervisory authority, the BayLDA, already has Article 60. Paragraph 9 of the GDPR. In accordance with Article 60(9) of the GDPR, the Austrian data protection authority has to decide on the parts of the complaint to be rejected, which define the subject-matter of the complaint.

C. Factual findings

The respondent has its office in Nuremberg, Germany. The complainant is domiciled in Austria.

A dispute was pending between the parties concerning the withdrawal of the complainant's contract from a [redacted] complete set purchased from the respondent, including a license of a so-called [redacted] software for training purposes, and the complainant's action in this regard — which had cited as grounds for rescission of data protection defects — was dismissed by judgment of the Amtsgericht Nürnberg of 25 March 2019 (ref. 12 C 8459/18) after conducting an oral hearing — now final.

Among other things, the District Court found that the complainant initially ordered and delivered an offline version in April 2018. In June 2018, the offline version was converted into a single version at the complainant's request. Names, address and PIN number were unlocked for initial setup or licensing verification. Furthermore, the respondent's body size, weight and e-mail address were recorded. No further data query by the Respondent took place.

The complainant was informed about the licence query or now has the information concerning him or her of the respondent's data processing.

Assessment of evidence: The findings are based first on the arguments put forward by the parties to the proceedings and from the documents in the file. As regards the information of the complainant by the respondent, in particular the judgment of the Amtsgericht Nürnberg of 25 March 2019

(Ref. 12 C 8459/18) and the BayLDA's final communication of 25 November 2020.

On the basis of the complainant's request of 11 September 2018, the Respondent provided the following information by letters of 12 September and 13 September 2018:

In addition, except for the clear data processed by the Respondent, which have been unsolicited by the Respondent, the Complainant has been informed of his data processed by the Respondent.

Assessment of evidence: The finding is based, in particular, on the judgment of the Amtsgericht Nürnberg of 25 March 2019 (ref. 12 C 8459/18) as well as on the final notification of the BayLDA of 25 November 2020 and the contents of the file.

By complaint of 19 March 2019, the complainant brought a data protection complaint to the Austrian data protection authority for breach of the right to information and information.

Assessment of evidence: The finding is based on the arguments put forward by the parties and the content of the file.

D. From a legal point of view, it follows:

The complaint processing is a cross-border data processing within the meaning of Article 4(23)(b) of the GDPR, since the complainant is domiciled in Austria, but the controller (respondent) is established in Nuremberg, Germany. In accordance with Article 56(1) GDPR, the lead supervisory authority was therefore the Bavarian State Office for Data Protection Supervision (BayLDA). According to Art. 4 para. 22 lit. c GDPR, the Austrian data protection authority was the supervisory authority with which the complaint was submitted.

In the course of the proceedings, the lead supervisory authority concluded that the respondent infringed the complainant's right of access by providing data information but not providing clear information to the complainant. In this regard, the BayLDA referred to Guidelines 01/2022 on data subject rights — Right of access, EDPB, para. 19 (version 1.0, adopted on 18 January 2022) and on ErwGr. 63 of the GDPR.

Furthermore, the BayLDA considered that the deletion of the complainant's data after the court hearing before the Amtsgericht Nürnberg resulted in an infringement of the complainant's right to information, since the complainant did not request such deletion and therefore it became impossible to inform the complainant's clear data. In this respect, the BayLDA again referred to the Guidelines 01/2022, specifically para. 39.

Moreover, the BayLDA considered that the right to information was not infringed. Also the alleged infringement in the right to information iSd. Article 13 of the GDPR considered the BayLDA not infringed on the basis of the findings of the investigation. Nor could it be contradicted.

The judgment of the Amtsgericht Nürnberg of 25 March 2019 (ref. 12 C 8459/18) already shows that the respondent has complied with its obligation to provide information and is also apparent from the findings that the complainant now has the information in accordance with Article 13(4) of the GDPR. A right to a declaration that the information has been given too late cannot be derived from the GDPR (see, for this purpose, the judgment of the Verwaltungsgerichtshof of 27 September 2007, with regard to the comparable legal situation under the DSG 2000. 2006/06/0330, mwN). In any event, the success of a complaint pursuant to Article 77(1) of the GDPR in conjunction with Paragraph 24(1) of the DSG is conditional on the existence of a specific complaint at the time of the administrative decision, which is no longer apparent at the time of the administrative decision (see, for example, VwSlg 11.568 A/1984 mwN regarding the lack of a subjective infringement).

This also applies to the other points to be reported iSd. Art. 15 GDPR, of which the complainant (in the meantime) is aware (e.g. the possibility of lodging a complaint with a supervisory authority or the purposes of processing; see the findings of the VwGH of 27 March 2006, Zl. 2004/06/0125, of 25 April 2006, Zl. 2004/06/0167, and of 25 November 2008, Zl. 2004/06/0007).

If the lead supervisory authority and the supervisory authorities concerned agree to reject or reject parts of the complaint and to act on other parts of that complaint, Article 60 shall apply. Paragraph 9 GDPR on this matter makes a separate decision for each of these parts. The lead supervisory authority shall adopt the decision for the part concerning action in relation to the controller, notify it to the principal establishment or sole establishment of the controller or processor in the territory of its Member State and inform the complainant thereof, while the supervisory authority responsible for the complainant adopts the decision for the part concerning the rejection or rejection of that complaint and informs the complainant and informs the controller or processor thereof. For this reason, the decision in question is taken by the Austrian Data Protection Authority for the part of the complaint to be dismissed.

The appeal was therefore dismissed in accordance with the opposition.
